

The goal of my project is to determine whether supervised or unsupervised classification would be the classification method I would use at work. To do this I took the same segmented image and performed both classification methods on it. I then compared the two output images to one another and also documented the amount of time I spent on them and struggles I dealt with. In the end, I decided for my work I would use supervised classification.